The following candidates were nominated:

For Mayor

H. W. Chambers
Nominated by J. L. Clarke and Roger Barrett.

W. G. Evans
Nominated by J. A. Russell and D. M. Sinclair.

For Councillor

C. H. Adshad
Nominated by H. C. Liesener and W. D. Spence.

Luke Collinge
Nominated by A. S. Gole and J. J. Russell.

J. H. Fleury

D. M. Sinclair
Nominated by A. R. Kendrick and J. A. Russell.

The election will take place on Tuesday March 21st from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m.

The fact that over 180 persons registered as voters, in addition to those on the assessment roll, would indicate that the election will bring out the largest vote in years.

Voters should remember that as four councillors are needed it is necessary to vote for four, otherwise the ballot will be spoiled.

Mountain View Council Meeting

The organization meeting of the Mountain View municipal council was held at Olds on Monday last with all the councillors present.

Councillor Flynn was re-elected reeve and Councillor McCoy was appointed deputy-reeve for the first six months. Mr. C. E. Reiber was appointed auditor for the ensuing year.

The representatives on the hospital board were: Didsbury, Mr. and Mrs. McCoy; Olds, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Dodd.

Councillor McCoy was elected representative of the municipality to the annual meeting of the municipal hall district to be held at Calgary this week.

It was decided that the council would supply gopher poison up to June 1st on a 50-50 basis, the farmer to purchase one package of poison, while the municipality will supply an additional package.

The weed inspector was instructed to send out summonses to farmers who had badly weed-infested fields.

The assessor made a report on the assessment, showing the average value per acre at $17.53. The total assessment of all lands in the district was $3,811,900.00, which is a reduction of $347,675, the former assessment being $4,159,575.00. The assessment was made during last year and will take effect in 1934.

An application for old age pension was approved and routine organization resolutions passed.

The Swap Column.

There are probably 100 people in this district looking for just the article or animal you want to dispose of.

Why not tell everybody about it?

You will be surprised how little it will cost you.

It will not be long now until you will have hatching-eggs and day-old chicks for sale. Better get ready to tell all the neighbors about them.

Reduction of the minimum salary for school teachers from $8.00 to $6.00 a year is provided for in an amendment to the School Act, which Hon. Percen Baker, the minister of education introduced in the legislature Friday.

"BUY IN DIDSBURY"

Dramatic Entertainer Delights Her Audience

On Tuesday evening Miss Theresa Siegel appeared at the first time in Didsbury in a dramatic recital under the auspices of the C.G.I.T. and Boys' Groups, and those people who attended realized the excellence of the programs other towns have been enjoying and trust Miss Siegel will return here again.

Miss Siegel's selections swept her audience from screams of laughter to breathless silences of suspense, and at other times to the verge of tears. It would be most difficult to say which of her numbers was enjoyed the most, although the children and without any doubt, older people will long remember "The Little Donkey Engine" and "Aunt Eliza On Automobiles," while the boys were thrilled with "Black Thunder, the Outlaw Horse." The adults, when in stricken circumstances, will surely recall "Five Cents For Luck." Miss Siegel was kind enough to give several delightful encores. Though there was a large number of children present their attention was maintained throughout and their conduct was splendid.

Several musical numbers were included in the programs by local talent. Miss Rita Scrutton and Arthur Boorman delighted the audience with piano and violin selections, while Mrs. Mac Studer Campbell played two very beautiful "solo numbers and an encore." Due to a bad cold, Miss M. Saugstend was unable to sing, and Miss E. Stock, of Olds, very graciously substituted.

WEDDING.

Miss Frances E. Durrer, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Durrer, was united in marriage to Mr. Walter E. Pratt, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. K. Pratt, at St. Cyprian's Church on Wednesday afternoon, Rev. A. D. Currie performing the ceremony. After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride.

Population Of World Shows A Steady Increase According To The League Of Nations

The Statistical Department of the League of Nations has been counting noses, and gives the figure of the world's population as at the end of 1921, at about two billion twelve million eight hundred thousand.

More than half of these people live in Asia. In fact, it is the most populous continent, having an excess of some 252 million inhabitants over all the other continents combined. Asia also has the most rapid increase in population in comparison with other parts of the world.

Europe, for the first time in history, has more than half a billion people. On the first of January, 1922, the figure representing the population was greater than 500 millions. The figure for the same date, 1921, was 498 millions.

The North and South American continents were inhabited by some 252 millions of persons at the end of 1921, an increase of four millions over the year previous.

The vast continent of Africa contains scarcely 142 millions of inhabitants. And interesting to note, this figure, for 1921, is two million less than for 1920. This is the only decrease recorded by any of the continents.

Australia, the remaining continent, supported but ten millions of people at the end of 1921.

Some of the statistics given for the major countries of Europe are interesting: Russia, 127 millions in 1921 against 124 millions in 1920; Germany, 61 millions, with no great advance in growth; Great Britain, 49 millions, no increase; France, 42 millions, an increase of 610,000 over 1920; Italy, 41 millions, a decrease of 400,000; Poland, 32 millions, an increase of a million.

The world's population is increasing. That fact is one that has ramifying implications, and if the growth continues at the present rate, within less than half a century it will be one of the most pressing problems that will have to be dealt with.

Fertilizing Pasture Lands

Best Results Obtained When Continuous Grazing Is Practised

Pasture land fertilized at the rate of 475 pounds per acre of a complete fertilizer was able to carry 2.15 cows to the acre when continuous grazing was practised. The same kind of land similarly fertilized but grazed rotationally was able to carry only 1.7 cows to the acre, and the same kind of land unfertilized and continuously grazed carried 1.40 cows to the acre. These results were obtained by the Dominion Department of Agriculture at the Experimental Farm, Nappan, N.S. In practice the number of cows varied from week to week according to the condition of growth, and by careful calculation dependable results were obtained. In addition to the pasture the cows received a grain ration at a rate consistent with the amount of milk given. The field used in this experiment had been in use as pasture for most of the twenty-five years it had been in use.

The results of this experiment go to show a saving of 1.1 pounds of meat per cow per day on the fertilized rotationally grazed area and 1.90 pounds on the fertilized continuously grazed area, as compared with the unfertilized area.

The greatest length actually measured is that from the earth to the most distant known nebula, or about 150,000,000 light years. The smallest known length is the estimated diameter of the nucleus of a hydrogen atom, set down as a little more than one-million-billionths of an inch.

Losing Their Manners

Conversation in Some Homes Impassible Since Radio Arrived

Has the radio developed a people with declining manners? It used to be considered the height of ill breeding, in the good old days, for anyone in the room to interrupt a conversation between guest and host, but those days are gone forever in radio homes, where it is very common for some one thoughtlessly or by design, to turn on the radio, and get a death-runged announcer following his host, or a singer screaming the hit, a jazz song to the utter disruption of conversation on any subject. And it would be insulting the whole family if one made an observation on this utter lack of good manners.

Size Of Ranch Flocks

Income Received Is Affected By Number Of Breeding Flocks

The number of breeding ewes per ranch is an outstanding factor affecting the income received by range sheepmen in Alberta and Saskatchewan, according to an economic survey of the range sheep industry conducted during the past three years by the Agricultural Economics Branch of the Federal Department of Agriculture. In analysing the relation of size of business to income, the records of 87 ranches were grouped according to the number of breeding ewes per ranch: 11 ranches had under 500 breeding ewes; 25 between 500 and 1,000; 18 between 1,000 and 1,500; 17 between 1,500 and 2,000; 5 between 2,000 and 2,500; 1 between 2,500 and 3,000; and 7 ranches had over 3,000 breeding ewes. Ranches who had less than 500 breeding ewes obtained an average ranch income of $441, whereas those who had between 1,500 and 2,000 breeding ewes secured $2,022. The income per ranch was thus found to increase with an increase in the number of breeding ewes, and the size group 2,000 to 2,499 was reached and from this point declined, indicating that these sheep ranchers who had between 1,500 and 2,000 breeding ewes had about the right balance between the number of ewes, amount of range, labor and equipment per ranch.

Spinach and Carrots

New York Surgeon Tells Women How To Become Beautiful

Any woman can be beautiful, according to Dr. J. Howard Crane, plastic surgeon of New York. But she must be willing to eat spinach.

"What you eat is the answer to how fast you age," Dr. Crane told delegates to the trade display and fashion show which continued here today. He then promised a beautiful complexion to any woman who would eat each day a generous portion of a thin-sliced vegetable follow it with a good dose of spinach or carrots and top them off with a quart of milk.

"Worry and fear are to be avoided at all times," the surgeon advised. "Nothing detracts so much from your looks." Most stage and screen beauties, he said, have "acquired their attractiveness."

Cost Of Operating And Maintaining Port Of Churchill Will Always Be Very Moderate

No Latchkey Needed

Always a Door-Man At Number Ten Downing Street

However late the hour, Premier Ramsey MacDonald and members of his family never have to worry about being locked out of their London home.

For No. 10 Downing St., home of England's premier and the most famous house in London, is claimed to be the only private residence in the capital to which no one needs a latchkey.

Thanks to David Lloyd George, wartime premier, "10 Downing" has a door attendant night and day, and there is always a doorman on duty, however small the hour.

When Lloyd George came into power and took up residence at Downing St., there was a little wooden knob, hardly perceptible, on the door near the knocker, and by pulling the knob a string inside attached to it raised the latch, and the caller entered.

This simple village method did not appeal to Lloyd George, especially in war time, and instructions were given for the door to be manned night and day.

Up to the first year of the war it would have been possible for any stranger to have pulled the latch and entered the premier's residence, but nowadays every visitor is carefully scrutinized and asked his business before being permitted to enter even one of the ante-rooms.

Life Of Weed Seeds

Experiment Proves Some Germinate Strongly After Forty Years

An experiment to test the viability of weed seeds has been reported by the Dominion Department of Agriculture. Seeds of many kinds of weeds were mixed with sand and placed in uncolored pint bottles and buried twenty inches below the surface. The bottles were slanted with the mouth downward to prevent the accumulation of water in the bottles.

The experiment has been carried on by the Michigan Agricultural College, and it has been found that after forty years buried in this way seeds of Black Medick, Peppergrass, Pigweed, Ragweed, Wild Primrose, Common Plantain, Purslane, and Curled Dock germinated vigorously.

These remarkable results led the Dominion Agronomist to ask the question "Who knows how long weed seeds will last?"

Owing to natural breakwaters the cost of operating and maintaining the port of Churchill will always be moderate whether the traffic be heavy or light. D. W. McLachlan, engineering charge of the Hudson Bay terminals, told the Engineering Institute of Canada at the concluding session of its annual meeting at Ottawa.

Natural breakwaters or jetties at the entrance to Churchill harbor, he explained, direct the tidal currents so that they perform a perpetual service by their scouring action in keeping the harbor from filling up. There are no wide tidal flats or currents to deal with.

The expenditure to date chargeable to the Churchill development amounts to about $13,372,856, stated Mr. McLachlan. With work still to be done the cost on completion will be about $15,800,000. The net cost, according to Mr. McLachlan, would be about $12,500,000 if the dredging plant can be sold for half its original cost and if allowance is made for an amount of $625,000 incurred through taking over plant formerly charged to the works at Port Nelson.

The further work required to complete the initial development at Churchill, Mr. McLachlan said, consists of one season's dredging with one dredge; an additional season's work in connection with covering the water supply pipe; a small amount of work on a 16-inch water supply intake; extension of elevator tracks; and some further sheetpiling of the face of the deep water dock.

The water supply of Churchill was one of the unique features of the development. Provision of water for locomotives, ships and camp in general was a difficult matter. There were no creeks of any size. The plan adopted was to excavate a reservoir at Grassy Slough, three and a half miles from the docks, having a capacity of 17,000,000 gallons. A pumping station and tank were provided and a 16-inch pipe line carries the water across the country to another tank within the townsite of Churchill.

Toy Bank Sales Increase

Those That Refuse To Open Were Among Best Sellers

The depression has brought millions of coins out of the sock and into the Tom Thumb savings bank.

More than four and a half million toy coin depositories were sold in the United States in 1922, a 70 per cent. increase over 1920, according to a survey of the American toy industry.

Banks that refuse to release deposits until five or ten dollars accumulate led in popularity last year. The vogue for saving inspired many new designs, including banks that register five different kinds of coins and hold as much as $75. Fancy chromium plated banks gave a fashion note to thrift.

Banks with combinations like safes and banks that combined cash register attachments were favored by children for playing store. But the adult resolution to save is credited with the popularity of banks that refuse to open.

The manufacturers of toy banks estimate that nine out of ten are broken into after two years. So the industry counts on a large replacement business in spite of lifetime guarantees against all mishaps except forcible entry.

White Bread Forbidden

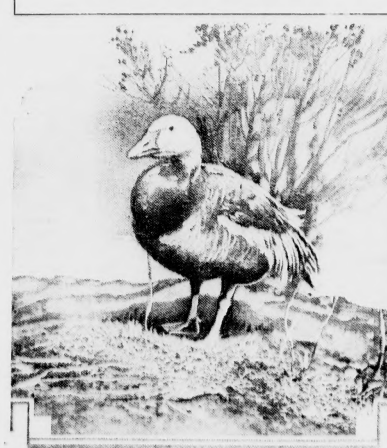

White bread will be forbidden until next harvest to soldiers, policemen and boarders in schools and colleges in Rumania. Instead, they will receive rye bread and a kind of stiff porridge made of maize.

"You only married me because my aunt left me some money."

Nothing of the kind. I'd have married you regardless of who had left it to you."

One letter carried 10,000 bags of Christmas mail from Britain to America in December.

The Elections.

On Tuesday of next week voting will take place for Mayor and four councillors for the town.

It is the duty of everyone having a vote to exercise their franchise and turn out to vote for some candidates.

If you are satisfied with the way the Mayor and councillors have conducted the business of the town during their terms of office you should give them your support, as tried officials have the advantage of experience.

If, however, you are not satisfied with the services given, you should turn out and vote for the men of your preference.

It must be remembered that we are passing through trying times and that public men from the holder of the highest to the humblest, are having their troubles, although we believe they are doing their best to solve our problems.

In spite of the difficult times the town has made a very creditable showing and we do not think that any town in Alberta can be shown to be in any better position than the town of Didsbury.

Preparing Seed Grain.

If the grain to be used for seed has been exposed to frost or excessive weathering, it would be well to have it tested for germination before spending time on cleaning it.

The cleaning apparatus used on the Dominion Experimental Station at Rosthern consists of a fanning mill and a Carter disc cleaner. This combination works very well for wheat and can be used to remove wheat and small weed seeds from oats or barley. The Carter disc will do a much cleaner job if the grain is run over a fanning mill first to remove large foreign matter and blow out light material.

In cleaning grain with the ordinary fanning mill, which uses two screens or more, a good job can be done as a rule if there is a fair assortment of sieves and the grain or seeds to be removed are not the same weight and size as the grain to be cleaned. No definite size of sieves can be specified, as the sieves will have to be varied with the size of the grain. A general principle to recognize is that the grain to be cleaned should just pass through the top sieve or sieves which run off the straw, chaff and rubbish. Usually this sieve runs off a small percentage of good grain, which is overlarge. The grain now passes through an air-draft which removes dust, light grain, and some small weed seeds if present. The last sieve the grain passes over should be small enough to prevent the grain going through, but large enough to allow all small weed seeds to pass.

The above outline is the principle on which most fanning mills operate and if properly understood can be suited to do good work with most grains. For such work as the removal of wild oats from wheat, the Carter disc, or some such cleaner is necessary in order to do a perfect job.

No Injustice Is Being Done

Among the proposed amendments to the Alberta Game Act is one which will give a farmer the right to shoot upland game birds and waterfowl in any part of the province without being required to take out a license. Hon. Geo. Headley, who administers the act, has explained to the legislature that two factors are involved. One is that this province simply restores to the act a regulation which it contained formerly, and the other is that the farmers protect the birds on their property and furnish facilities for their increase. The minister argued that it was only fair that the farmers should be given the privilege. While there were some intimations that the change might lead to the charge that discrimination was being practiced, and while it was stated that the major fish and game associations had registered stout objections, the amendment received its second reading and will shortly come up for its third and final reading.

At first glance it might seem that grounds existed for the charge of discrimination. A study of the facts shows that no injustice is being done any section of the people of Alberta. It is quite true that the farmers are the best friends of the game birds. They have been sound supporters of the fish and game associations which have been organized in the last eight years. The bulk of the bird shooting must be done on their land and they have been very considerate of the city sportsmen. Another fact is that the farmers do little shooting themselves. The bird season finds them in the thick of harvesting and other necessary fall operations and they have no time for hunting. Only the odd farmer has an opportunity to roam around on shooting trips, so the provision actually does not mean much in respect of the killing of game birds.

As for permitting farmers to shoot without taking out licenses, this is a reasonable concession, having regard for the good work the farmers are doing in improving Alberta's game bird situation.

HE HAD TO REDUCE Easiest Way Proved the Best

A man who had been advised by his doctor to reduce, writes thus:—
"I had put on weight to the extent of 200 lbs. This was excessive as I am only 5-ft. 6-ins. in height. My doctor advised me to reduce, and I tried hot baths and massage. This, however, was too fatiguing, and I am a very busy man. I then saw an advertisement about Kruschen Salts, bought a bottle, and commenced taking them right away. Last Saturday I weighed myself, and to my surprise and delight I had reduced my weight from 200 lbs. to 189 lbs. My health generally is better. I sleep well, and eat more heartily. I have spent the good money to my friends who are putting on weight."—W.H.R.

Her heart leaped at the thought, and her whole manner toward Alan changed. She drew near him, slipped an arm about him; and a softness came into her eyes.

"Dear, you're sorry to be out. I'm sorry to see you hurt. You didn't want to leave here, Alan. I—I did want you to, but I wouldn't have insisted. I'd have given in to you, dear, before I'd seen you unhappy. In the long run, you'll not regret it'll be the best for us."

Alan watched the candle gleam in her hair, the autumn hair that always brought him poignant memories of her brother Curt. His thoughts, leaping ahead to his lone-landed venture, were severely with her at all, yet he was fascinated by her sudden change, her ardent affection. There had been times when affection from her would have cheered and heartened him; but now her lips, inviting him, asking for his own, meant less than the pique lying at his feet.

She asked him: "And now, you're going to take me? Well, be down in Victoria, now? Won't Colonel Steele be mad when he hears? You'll write to me right away?"

"I suppose so. Yes, I'm going to take that job. Not much else to amuse."

She noticed how cold, how unloved he was, and she went on, half-stammering.

"On our way outside, we can be married at Edmonton, and have that trip up planned to the Blackfoot Settlements. And we'll have a cabin on our own—have now—a cabin back in Vancouver Island, back in the mountains of ourselves, Alan."

He merely said, gesturing at the door: "I'm leaving Curt's keepers here. You'll watch after them, won't you?" And he added, "I'm leaving you tonight, Edith."

"Leaving here? Tonight?" Her eyes went to the park on the floor. Suddenly started, she looked up at him again.

Feeling that he owed some explanation to the girl he was engaged to, he partly explained: "I'm pitching off on a trip, Edith. By myself. I'm going after those men that shot up two of my friends. Haskell blocked a patrol I wanted to make. To go after them I had to be free. I don't know how long it'll take me. Maybe three weeks, maybe six. I'd like for you to wait here."

Something in his manner stopped Elizabeth from questioning him. She knew he intended to marry her and take her to Victoria; but something told her that in this present hour it was not well to question or oppose Alan Baker.

She hesitated: "I'll wait, dear. I'll wait here for you. But, Alan, before you go, you—She stood on tiptoe, reproaching him, begging: "Aren't you going to tell me goodbye?"

Alan bent and kissed her, as she invited. But he did it dispassionately, as a thing expected of him. He felt her breath on his cheek, her arm tightening around him, her body pressed against his. He was subtly but unmistakably aware of a certain willingness about her; she wanted him to linger; she would have stayed with him there in the cabin. . . . It surprised it shocked him, after all these months when she had been so cold and passionless.

When she had gone, he buckled his pack and caught up his hat. As he started to snuff the two candles in the alcove, he heard a thumping foot-step on the threshold and turned to see Bill Hardlock. In a flash he guessed that Bill had been waiting outside, not wanting to come in while Elizabeth was there.

"Alan! H—H—his blue blazes!" Bill was all but incoherent as he advanced toward the cabin. "Say it isn't so! I heard . . . wasn't meaning to listen. Joyce told me part of it, and I just heard you tell Elizabeth. He didn't bust you? He didn't dare! And blame you for splitting our patrol? You didn't buy out—"

"That's what I did. Bill. He hated me, blamed me. What's worse, he wouldn't let us make the Incomin trip. I couldn't stand that. I'm out. Leaving Edith. Right now." Bill's face turned gray. His jaw dropped, he stood in stupefied shock, with a look of misery on his blunt, bulldog features.

"You're leaving me?" he gulped. "You're pitching away for good. You always stood up for us men against Haskell. You and me . . . pretty good partners . . . Now you won't be here any more, Alan . . ."

"Bill, shake yourself together and listen. I'm going after those bandits. There's several things you've got to do for me. One is I want you to cut aside from patrols whenever you can and visit Joyce and see she's safe. Another thing, I'm giving you this cabin and what's in it, except for a little personal stuff that I'll get some time or else send for. Then, there's one last thing. Got any free time coming in the next couple weeks?"

"I don't know. Yes, must have three or four days—way've been hitting the ball all winter."

"In a few days with me enough I need a little help on my plan; and you, here at Edith, you can give me a hand. It's not much, but it'll mean a lot to me. I'll tell you what I've got in mind, so you'll understand."

In a few terse sentences that left Bill gasping and awestruck at so staggering a scheme, Alan sketched his plan.

"And you'll keep quiet about this, Bill? Don't tell Edith, Elizabeth, Drummond, anybody. If it ever gets out, I'd wreck the whole idea, and I'd probably land in a penitentiary."

"I'll keep quiet as a dead dog. I won't breathe a word. But Alan, why in his way we've hung together, why can't I be in on your trick?" Edith pleaded. "Let me go along, Alan."

"I'd mean desertion for you, Haskell would give you the limit. And you've got to watch after Joyce. My work is a one-man job anyway. We'll keep in touch, Bill. You write to me. Lord knows but what you and I sometimes on ahead, might get together again."

Alan hurried down the slope to the trading store. Factor Drummond had not gone to bed. The news of the patrol, of his old friend Dave MacMillan being arrested and faced with such overwhelming evidence of guilt, had upset him.

"What the devil, Alan?—civilian clothes!" Alan was weary of people's astonishment. He wasted no time with explanations.

"Drummond, where's old Dad Pence? I saw him here when we got back this evening."

Drummond pointed behind the counter. Alan walked around, up the narrow aisle, and there found old Pence stooping on a pile of wolf skins.

"He had passed his three score and ten, old Dad Pence, at prospecting, trapping, water-digging, whatnot. He had made fortunes and guilelessly had lost them to men sharper than he. He had come down to the twilight of life penniless, homeless, childless. But old Dad Pence could still handle a rifle with the best of the youngsters; and a reputation for magic which he had acquired among the witch-killing Indians, still clung to him and put fear into primitive hearts. Altogether he was the man for Alan's purpose, if only Joyce would not mother him too much and make his existence thereafter too desolate by contrast.

Shaking him wide enough awake to understand what was wanted of him, Alan explained. He was to go back to the Big Alaska with Joyce and watch after her. He was to keep in touch with Bill Hardlock. Under no circumstances was he to wander off into the bush and leave Joyce alone.

Old Pence nodded. "I'll do it. By just as you say. I'll try not to forget and wander off in the bush. I'll look after Joyce, you don't worry."

Alan thrust a handful of bills into his pocket, and rose up and stepped back around the counter. "I want to buy your motor canoe, Drummond. How much?"

FIRST came the Chevrolet Master Six—and Canada responded with the greatest welcome given a Chevrolet since 1929. Then, up stepped the leader with another entirely new line of cars, the Standard Six. Down went the Chevrolet base-price to the lowest figure in history for a full-size, six-cylinder closed car. And the spotlights of public interest flashed brighter than ever on Chevrolet.

Now—for the first time—there are two Chevrolet Sixes—the Standard and the Master. Body-styles for everybody. Prices for several different groups of buyers. But only one standard of quality—the very same high standard that has made CHEVROLET the greatest name in low-priced motoring.

Both Standard and Master lines offer Air-Streamed Bodies by Fisher—safety glass windshields—and that newest General Motors sensation: Fisher No-Draft Ventilation. In the Standard Six, you can enjoy all these advantages at the lowest operating cost of any full-size car on the road.

Whichever you choose—the mere fact that the leader built it is assurance of outstanding value. But you'll never really know how outstanding it is till you come to our showrooms—see it, drive it, yourself!

Mountain View Notes

Mr. H. Roberts was a business visitor to Calgary last week.

A concert is to be held in the Community Hall on Friday Mar. 31 to raise funds towards the school fair. Each school entering the fair is preparing a short program to be given that evening.

A number of neighbors met at the home of Mrs. Ed. Blain on Saturday evening, when an enjoyable time was had playing cards. Miss Doris Brown donated the prizes and assisted in providing refreshments. The prizes for "five-hundred" were awarded to Mrs. H. Roberts and Mr. S. Thomson.

Trucks seemed to be very busy last week owing to the advance in wheat prices. Truck drivers were heard criticizing the rough roads:

The Truck Driver.

Each day he works from morn till night,
Shovelling grain with all his might.
Homeward late he drives and wishes
the roads
Were made a little smoother to haul his loads.

In years gone by the grain to town
Was hauled by him without a frown,
His team he rested while he dined,
Then homeward-bound, but he did not mind.

Now, man moves on a faster plane
And prefers to hustle in his grain,
So trucks are running to and fro
And we meet them as along the road we go.

WEEKLY SERMONETTE

It might be a wholesome thing for many of us and conducive to humanity if we were able to take the advice of a somewhat poetical but practical whose verse appears in an English periodical:

Just stand aside and watch yourself go by:

Think of yourself as "he" instead of "I."

Pick flaws, find fault, forget the man is you,
And strive to make the estimate ring true.

The faults of others then will dwindle and shrink,
Love's chain grows stronger by one mighty link—

When you with "he" as substitute for "I."

He stood aside and watched yourself go by
